June 14-18 - Switzerland Open at Gstaad – The sixth Gstaad stop for the women's SWATCH-FIVB World Tour should be interesting to see if a third different team can win the gold medal in the Swiss Alps. Only two teams (Shelda Bede/Adriana Behar and Misty May/Kerri Walsh) have won Gstaad gold medals. Brazil (seven medals) and the United States (seven) have dominated the Gstaad medal picture with Australia being the only other country to gain a spot on the podium as Sydney 2000 Olympic champions Natalie Cook and Kerri Pottharst earned a bronze medal in 2002. 2005 SWATCH-FIVB World Tour Fact Sheet - History

THE FIVB - The seeds of the International Volleyball Federation (FIVB) were sown at a meeting in the Graf Coffee House in Prague when the Polish, French and (then) Czechoslovak Volleyball Federations discussed declarations of support from the Italian, Yugoslav, Romanian, and Belgian Federations suggesting an "autonomous Volleyball commission". Subsequently, the organization of a first Constitutive Congress was entrusted to the President of the French Volleyball Federation, Paul Libaud, and it took place in Paris April 18-20, 1947 with the participation of 14 Federations. The FIVB was born! Libaud was elected first President of the FIVB shortly afterwards and the headquarters were established in Paris, where they remained for the first 37 years until 1984. The first World Championships were organized in 1949 for men and in 1952 for women and have since remained the biggest event in Volleyball. In 1957 the International Olympic Committee (IOC) included Volleyball as a medal sport in the 1964 Olympic Games in Tokyo while Beach Volleyball made its Olympic debut at the 1996 Atlanta Games. A big turning point for the FIVB came in 1984 when President Libaud, by then in his late 70's and highly acclaimed for having founded the Federation and making it a significant reality on the world sports stage, resigned. Dr. Rubén Acosta Hernandez was elected new President to succeed him at the World Congress in Long Beach, California. The FIVB moved its headquarters to Lausanne, Switzerland the same year bringing it closer to the IOC. Very soon after Dr. Acosta became Volleyball's ambassador, promoting the sport in worldwide competitions held in the five Confederations (Asia, Africa, Europe, South America and Norceca).

BEACH VOLLEYBALL - Born in the depression days of the 1920s on the sandy beaches of Santa Monica, California, Beach Volleyball has become a multi million-dollar extravaganza and an Olympic sport that has captivated players in more than 90 countries. From those first matches, the game caught on 10 years later in France, Bulgaria, the Czech Republic and Latvia before slotting perfectly into the Californian lifestyle in the 1950s and the pulsating 1960s, taking its place alongside surfing. The United States and Brazil played a major role in transforming "Beach" into a professional sport in the 1970s and 1980s, but it was the hard work of the FIVB President Dr. Rubén Acosta and Beach Volleyball stars such as Sinjin Smith, Karch Kiraly and Randy Stoklos that helped establish Beach Volleyball internationally in the 1980s and 1990s and become a full medal sport at the Atlanta 1996 Olympic Games. At the same time the FIVB Beach Volleyball International Circuit evolved from the World Series to the World Tour and exploded in popularity in Europe, Latin America and Asia. The 2004 SWATCH-FIVB World Tour boasted 27 major events encompassing Europe, Africa, Asia and the Americas in an Olympic year with over US $5-million in prize money.

- 1987 - The first FIVB international competition started called "The World Championship" in Rio de Janeiro. It later changes its name to the World Series in 1989-90 and the World Tour in 1996.
- 1993 - The International Olympic Committee recognizes Beach Volleyball as an Olympic Games discipline.
- 1996 - First appearance (and sold out) at the Atlanta Olympic Games.
- 2000 - Beach Volleyball at the Sydney Olympic Games attracts 180,000 spectators and billions of TV viewers.
- 2001 - More and 120,000 spectators attend five days of competition at the World Championship in Austria.
- 2003 - The World Tour includes a four-leg "Grand Slam" integrated tournament within a tournament, challenging the top teams to win "The Slam" and go down in history as truly great players. Berlin, Marseille, Klagenfurt and Los Angeles host Grand Slams with US$300,000 in prize money for each tournament
- 2004 - A record 27 tournaments, including a three-leg Grand Slam (Berlin, Marseille and Klagenfurt) of which 22 are included in the Olympic qualifying process, with record prize money of US$5,480,000.

2005 SWATCH-FIVB World Tour Fact Sheet

SWATCH-FIVB World Tour - From 1989 when the first international Beach Volleyball Tour called the World Series was unleashed in Rio de Janeiro, the circuit has undergone two name changes and a makeover to become a series of "dynamic" global sporting events each year. From the beginning in 1989 of three legs of men's competition in Brazil, Italy and Japan involving 40 athletes from seven countries, the international Beach Volleyball Tour introduced women's play three years later before the world-wide circuit was revitalized and the World Championship Series was born in 1995. At that point legs and prize money stood at 17 and US$2.4-million, respectively thus prompting the transformation into the now famous World Tour. The SWATCH-FIVB World Tour embraced 22 stops split between men and women in 2003 with over 700 athletes from more than 50 countries and a record prize money pool nearing US$5-million, including Grand Slam stops in Berlin, Marseille, Klagenfurt and Los Angeles. The 2004 season featured 27 "major" tournaments (15 men and 12 women), with US$5.48-million in prize money, a three-leg Grand Slam (Berlin, Marseille and Klagenfurt), plus the Athens 2004 Olympics Games where 24 men's and 24 women's teams competed for the gold medals won by Emanuel Rego/Ricardo Santos of Brazil and Misty May/Kerri Walsh of the United States.

OLYMPIC BEACH VOLLEYBALL - The SWATCH-FIVB World Tour during the 1992 and 1993 season was, in a way, the beginning of the sports' Olympic era. After the 1992 Barcelona Games, a beach volleyball event was played in Almeria, Spain, as post-Olympic demonstration sport. In addition to being the first-ever women's international event, the tournament was the first step in getting the sport entered in the Olympics. The United States won both men's (Sinjin Smith/Randy Stoklos) and women's (Karolyn Kirby/Nancy Reno) titles. In February, 1993, International Olympic Committee (IOC) President Juan Antonio Samarach, along with Atlanta Committee Olympic Games President Billy Payne and other IOC members attended the FIVB Beach Volleyball Finals in Rio de Janeiro. There they saw the excitement that the sport could generate as over 140,000 fans jammed the stadium for the one week tournament. As a result, the most important event in the history of beach volleyball occurred on September 24, 1993. On that day, at the 101st IOC session in Monte Carlo, the sport of beach volleyball was admitted as a medal discipline for the 1996 Summer Olympics in Atlanta, Georgia. The sport had reached its Olympic era.

ECO FRIENDLY BEACH VOLLEYBALL! - The FIVB and Global Sports Alliance have joined forces for the third year to help raise environment awareness through sport. The ecoflag symbolizes the commitment to the environment of sports-lovers and everyone who knows the importance and irreplaceable nature of the water, air and greenery that surrounds us. The SWATCH-FIVB World Tour event in Gstaad, Switzerland is setting the example by players using bicycles for local transport in the picturesque alpine town! Hop, Step and Jump to a better environment GSA's, approach to the environmental problem is unique and practical:

- First (Hop) is promoting awareness through the Ecoflag. "We can enjoy volleyball because of clean air and water, thus the environment. Let's make sure that we keep the environment clean for future generations."
- Second (Step) is promoting the spontaneous actions on the environment. The GSA has introduced advanced initiatives on sports and environmental issues, such as asking sport fans to take spontaneous actions on the environment. They make this introduction through the Global Forum for Sports and Environment (G-ForSE2003), which is where FIVB president Dr. Rubén Acosta received the Prince Takamondo Memorial Prize for environmental excellence in November last year in Tokyo, Japan.
- Third (Jump) is spreading this awareness and actions to the 1 billion sport enthusiasts around the world.

BEACH VOLLEYBALL RULES - Unlike Volleyball with two teams of six players, Beach Volleyball is played by two players. The two teams of two players each must score points by placing the ball over (without touching) the net and into the opponent's court. The ball can touch any part of the body and each team has three alternate hits between the two players to return the ball. Other rules are:

- Except for the World Championships, each tournament for each gender features a single-elimination qualifier and a 32-team double-elimination Main Draw. The World Championships will feature a 48-team Main Draw for each gender with pool play determining the lineup for the 32-team single-elimination draw.
- The match is won by the team that wins two sets.
- A set is won by the team that scores 21 points first with a minimum margin of two (except in the deciding third set). In the case of a 20-20 tie, play is continued until a two-point lead is reached. In the case of the sets being tied 1-1, the deciding set is played to 15 points (not the usual 21) with a minimum lead of two points.
- A team winning a rally scores a point - The Rally Point System.
- The serving player must be alternated every time there is a change in possession.
- There are NO determined positions on the court.
- Two players can touch the ball at the same time, but when two team mates do, it counts as two hits (except if blocking).
- If there is a "held ball" by two opponents over the net it is not considered a fault.
- A player may enter the opponent's court provided they don't interfere with the opponent's play.
- A player cannot catch or throw the ball.

SWATCH-FIVB World Tour Grand Slams

With four 2005 SWATCH-FIVB World Tour stops forming a "Grand Slam", including the SWATCH-FIVB World Championships in Berlin, a team from each gender will be attempting to become the first international tandem to accomplishing the feat of winning all four events. If a team in either gender does not win all four "Grand Slam" events, the team with the best four finishes will win the "Grand Slam" Trophy.

In 2004, for example, Franco Neto/Tande Ramos of Brazil and Annett Davis/Jenny Johnson Jordan of the United States were the top point-getters, for the men's and women's events, respectively, when combining the points from Berlin, Stavanger, Marseille and Klagenfurt. In fact, a semi-final win by Franco and Tande over Christoph Dieckmann and Andreas Scheuerpflug of Germany in Klagenfurt secured the projected 2004 "Grand Slam" points title for the Brazilians by eight points over Mariano Barcetti and Martin Conde of Argentina with the Germans 30 points behind. This format requires that a team must play in all four "Grand Slam" events to qualify.

With Paris replacing Marseille as a "Grand Slam" stop, there has been five men's seasons and two women's seasons where events have been held in Berlin, Stavanger, Marseille (now Paris) and Klagenfurt. In reviewing podium placements for these four sites where competition was held in the same season, there has never been a team that has won all four stops (Berlin, Stavanger, Paris and Klagenfurt) in a season. In fact, only one team (Ana Paula Connelly/Sandra Pires of Brazil in 2003) has ever won the first two-straight projected "Grand Slam" events in order. And only one team (Ana Paula/Pires) has ever claimed podium spots in all four events in one season (2003). Since 1987, only seven men's teams (13 times) have won four or more events in a season. Since 1992, only five women's teams (10 times) have won four or more events in a season.

The Ostende event was staged the same weekend as another "open" event in Osaka where Natalie Cook and Kerri Pottharst of Australia won the title. Misty May and Kerri Walsh of the United States won seven-straight titles in events they entered (2003 and 2004, but they did not compete in six events during the streak). Holly McPeak and Nancy Reno of the United States won six-straight events together in 1996. Adriana Behar and Shelda Bede of Brazil won five-straight events (1998 and 1999).
